(a) whether draft code content submitted by Indian Broadcasting Federation to Government for its approval has categorized television programmes into two classes, one for general viewing and other for restricted viewing;

(b) if so, whether his Ministry has agreed that there is an urgent need for content regulation in electronic media;

(c) whether Broadcasters have opposed Government's move to curb electronic media and have written to the Prime Minister;

(d) if so, whether the Prime Minister has put T.V. content regulations on hold; and

(e) if so, by what time final decision in this regard is likely to be taken?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION AND BROADCASTING (SHRI ANAND SHARMA): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) Recognising the need for content regulation in the electronic media, the Government had constituted a Committee for reviewing the Programme and Advertising Codes (Content Code) prescribed under the Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Act 1995 and rules framed thereunder to provide greater specificity to the provisions of the existing codes. The Committee has submitted its Report in the form of Draft Content Code 2008 on 5.3.2008, which is placed on the website of the Ministry www.mib.nic.in for wider stakeholder consultation.

(c) to (e) A section of broadcasters has opposed regulation by the Government. The Government has given a commitment that any changes in the Cable Television Network rules would be taken up for finalisation only after the widest possible consultation with all concerned stakeholders and eliciting the different points of view on the proposed changes. No time frame has been fixed for the same.
